Totals for offences against property are slightly greater than the sum of the male and female totals because sex is not always recorded. In 1999, there were three offences cleared via apprehension where the sex of the alleged offender was unknown. Age is at time of apprehension. The counting rules used here differ from those used in Crime and Justice reports prior to 1998. Previously, all offences and all counts of the same offence listed on the apprehension report were included. Since 1998, multiple counts of the same offence have been omitted. The 1999 data are therefore not comparable with those reports prior to 1998.

Total for driving offences are slightly greater than the sum of the male and female totals because sex is not always recorded. In 1999, there were seven offences cleared via apprehension where the sex of the alleged offender was unknown. Age is at time of apprehension. The counting rules used here differ from those used in Crime and Justice reports prior to 1998. Previously, all offences and all counts of the same offence listed on the apprehension report were included. Since 1998, multiple counts of the same offence have been omitted. The 1999 data are therefore not comparable with those reports prior to 1998.

This applied to 22 offences cleared, 11 apprehension reports and 10 discrete individuals.

In the 'Totals' row, each apprehension report is counted once, irrespective of the number of offence types recorded on that report. Similarly, each alleged offender is counted once, irrespective of how many times he/she was apprehended, and how many offences were involved. As a result, for apprehension reports and alleged offenders, these totals are less than the sum of the numbers recorded for each offence group in the body of the table. If the one apprehension report contained more than one offence group, it would be counted separately in each group but only once in the 'Total' row. Similarly if, during 1999, the one person was charged with more than one offence type, he/she would be counted separately in each offence group but only once in the 'Total' row.
